In the year 995 of the Hegira (A. D., 1588) Sultan Marad, anowe to as a Americk III., instituted the transe fite in boner of Mohammes's birthday which which is so little known and so rarely seen by Eu-topeans. Under its title of the Doschit is, however,

The chief performers were of the rank called "perset Araba" at home; shough here and there man of a grade higher first wound themselves down with the rest. There were a few minutes of indescribable confusion. The street was so crammed that a human body land across it in the middle touch the first of the set of the rest. a human body laid across it in the middle touch be feel of those standing on each side. When or three hundred people lay down at once the we byed in, and arranged, until the heads were all one way, and the naked legs and feel another in regthat the There was little ceremony now. What is needed uncommonly like good vilit oaths in Arabic were shricked at the men lying down; and sticks and the hand were again frontly used open them. The live figures on the sale as a below as were so near dur elevated chairs at we could have touched them with our unbrelated we could be considered. nd barrowing head foremost, like a rabbit, in the amase pavement, succeeded it wedging himself in clarts an extra ingle had seemed impossible. De-site the ext and dried character of many of these trace ments here was plenty of remains emotion. The faces of those waiting to be trod on were hiden by their attitude, but their maked legs twitched nove and more convulsively as the music heralding he Sheik drew nearer; and though the better dresest among the native lookers on were impassive, and it some finitunes benefit, the affair was sufficiently service to make the European eventues. will's serious to make the European eye-witnesses wid their breath and grow pale. Between them sirely goarding the foreigners from the possible passes of excited families, insisted on acting as awaren, on calling on dervishes to pierce their faces a second time, on letting every one concerned know that infidels were studying the affair with cu-rions eyes, on pushing back believers to us to create a clear space. In front of their chairs, on leading up aked youths members of one of the pions orders in the procession, who were to be revered for the netal skewers with bend bends growing out of and nto their breasts, cheeks and cars, and for their or might be handled; on laughing and winking stationsly at the strangers they had in charge at cal janetures; and in otherwise comporting see it the initer had come to scoff and jest, and to heat the overmony as a series of circus tricks—and as it they, as men of the world, soldiers and hosts, fest bound to adopt their tone. It is one thing to gaze anaburesively at rites you do not share, and another to mock openly at what is sufficiently grave and serious so impel men to hack and hew their own bodies; and when hospitality took the form of feid-ing ap an evil looking Sandech, mad with religious evidenced and causing him to which borred. ement, and causing him to whirl a horrid we confessed to each other a desire to got awar. Independently of the structure feeling croked, one could not help feeling that however toloration and respect for the Viceroy's authority may be observed ordinarily, yet that men who were madning and woundler themselves in the litter slay of their religious arder should not be tried too ar, and that the easy mnonization to be derived rom sacrificing an intrudieg infidel, or for at least herbing or piercing him as they did themselves. on M net for their own sakes to be put before them too temptingly. This self-maining and a score of other fastisatic operations took place on the bodies the prostrate men. The procession came steadily on, musicians playing strange one stringed instruments clashing cymbale, hanging small tambourine-lake hand drume, and all accompanying themselves and being accompanied by underthly howls and yells, and marching slowly and with naked feet four almost upon the recumbent bodies. Flag bearing some singly at intervals, their bathers firled for the monutat to prevent their hitting the pendant lanterns, t was fullest, and when the discordant die was at its height, a stout white horse, with a pale faced man of forty five or so, turned the corner This was the Sheik, and, in another situation in life, an impartial observer would have declared he was drank. He was propped up on his horse by a stout attendant or either side of him, and seemd to have acceptant on either side of him, and secund to have no more voltilion than a sack of potutoes. His eyes were closed throughput, his face was white to glasst-liness, his body had the beipless swaring motion of a corpse held up. He was gorgeously dressed, and wore an immense turban of a green shawl pattern. His hands held the bridle, but they were limb and useless, and his horse was led by two attendants. it was a fine animal, but so very quiet, and stepped so gaugerly, that some observers buisted it had been specially trained. The convulsive twitchings of the transact Ups of those prostrate grow more and more pronounced, and then the transpling under bot began. We were at great many live to began. hor began. We were at great pains to observe how he animal trod, and where; and there can be no doubt of the reality of the ordeal. Sometimes on doubt of the reality of the ordeal. Sometimes on the course of the back, oftener between two men, so as the stand on the fleshy parts of the sides of both, the borse went steadily or until all down had borne a portion of it and its rider's weight. No one a portion of it and its rider's weight. No one accumed much hurt, however. The very tightness of the packing gave a certain power of realistance to the concrete mass of humanity; and directly the Sheck passed, those behind imped up—many of them going forthwith into convulsions, or into what looked like epilepsy. One ragged fellow immediative below as field, and the broken winded, here find their final owners. cars being bitten as a restorative by pious friends.
For a few minutes—that is, until the Sheik gained the deser of the mosque, and rode over more bodies within it—all was wild contration. Those rising up were embraced, while they plunged and cried and kicked fike men possessed.

The Chinese.

Tar 250 Chinamen who arrived on Tuosday night by the Narth Missouri Read, were transferred to the stowner Missouripi [louis at the feet of Market Street. The scene at the depot at the time the train arrived is said to have been ladicrous in the extreme. The work was a deafening clamor and a confusion of tengors. Evely man searched for his laggage, which contained of a bambeo stick and roll of bed clothes, and a bundle of wearing appared. These bundles were pitched out into the crowd, and passed overhead from hand to hand until they came to the nurer. The chalter resembled that of a council of mankeys, but all ware good-natured. After getting on board the Missoscepps, the Celestials "simmered down," unrolled their bankets on the deck at the engines, and curing up, were soon dreaming of their far-away homes across the Pacific, and the wives and children left behind.

Visitons To THE BOAT.

Vestrons To The Boar.

Yesterday the lemon-colored trayglers were visited on board the Moscocipis by thousands of correlizions, who were anxious to see what they looked like. A good many of the Chiestinis walked am the streets, looking at the buildings, the show windows and the vehicles. They all behaved very well, and did not exhibit as unthe cariosity as the red, Indian does when he course to the haunts of divilitation. The majority of them, however, remained on the hoat, sais star ding or the guards in gravps, chattering and laughing, and some equatting of mate and blankets on the deek. One party of five or six were group of, a let Turk, around a bamboo mat, engaged in a Chinese game with hirs of black bene or wrod with white spots like dominoes. The game recemed to be for antisement, as no money was in right. Several of the Chimaman spoke English, and were quite commandative. All were the national pig-tail, and most of them were arrayed in bine coats, or rather skirts that same to the knee. Their hats were of various kinds — caps, stovepipes and torbans. Some were their american boots, but nearly all had on a peculiar kind of shoes, broad at the toes and slipchod, so that when they walked their heels flip-flapped, and their steps were short and quick.

ROUSTABOUTS AND SPECULATORS. The roustabouts or deck-hands on the boat are all The roughlaboute or deck-hands on the boat are all Africans, and they did not seem to view the Chinese with favorable eyes. They regard them as interlopers, who work for half pay, keep all they earn, despise fat bacon, and sever indulge in whisky and poker. The Avinties had merer seen so many black men before, and they gazed at them cariously out of the corners of their piglike eyes, opening their mouths and displaying their kroad, white front upper teeth. As a great many New Englanders boarded the boat to a great many New Englanders boarded the heat to see John, there was, of course, some 'trading," doze. The Chinsmen had some brass coins of their own country, and it was not long before they learned the value of "stamps." Coin worth helf a cent were "awapped" for fractional carrency worth-twenty-five or fifty cents, and the yellow men laughed prodigious by at the supposed verdancy of the Tankees.

Captum Boyce has given us some very interesting details of the difficulties encountered in negotiating the present arrangements. It was found that a Chinese league or union exists all through California, the chiefs of which conduct all negotiations and take care of the interests of the men. These chiefs are elected to office, and have a salary to compensate them. It was found in the process of the negotiation that Chiese human mature is no nearer to the angelic standard than is Saxon or Cetic among us. The chiefs needed side contracts and private bargains, just as a Southerner or Yankee politician does before he can comprehend the true interests of his constituents. nese league or union exists all through California, the Thus it was found necessary to agree to establish a Chinese store in the vicinity of the place of labor, and great diplomacy was exhibited in arranging the amount and class of goods the contractors were called upon to supply as stock in the establishment. We give the full result of the negotiation in the following list of goods to be bought for the Chinese store in Texas: that we could have touched them with our umbrelias without rising. They lay with their faces downwards, and so their stomachs, and were, thanks to the care labor of the holy anen who had lugged and cuffed them into place, so thickly and neatly packed as to suggest the layer of a sardine box, or Norfolk biffins, a same caked together in the shops of Convent Garden. It was clear that their could be no evalual now, and that unless they get up and ran away the Shirk's horse would trample them nuder foot according to programme. Yet those excluded from want of space walled pitconsty, and our larged according to programme. Yet those excluded from want of space walled pitconsty, and our larged according to the story, whose single way of rearse brown cloth, like the skin of a wild animal, recalled John the Baptist in the wildens, broke from his holders with a mad how, and burrowing head foremost, like a rabbit, in the larges, broke from his holders with a mad how, and surrowing head foremost, like a rabbit, in the larges, live being a pound of the pounds and trains, to be succeed to the state of the care of the ca 700 pounds salt turnip, 40 sets bowls, 40 sets chop sticks, 1 dozen chop knives, 20,000 pounds salt shrimps, 15 bags or 1,980 pounds sait fish, 200 bags funges, 50 Chinese pass books, 5 boxes or 50,000 fire crackers, 2 boxes fire crackers, Jos paper, Jos sticks, 1 box or 50 pounds dried oysters, o mats or 250 pounds black peas, 2 mats or 100 pounds red peas, 5 mats or 250 barrels green peas, 15 large kettles, 16 small kettles, 2 dozenfrying-pan shovels, 2 bexes or 120 pairs Chinese common shors, 20 Chinese purses, 10 huckskin purses.

The men are to receive $30 coin per month, and board themselves. The contractors pay for their transportation to Texas, and all that it may east them over $20 to return to San Francisco after three years' service, the contractors agree to pay. It is calculated that the coming of the Chinese will so hasten carrailroad constructions that they may by that time be sent back by rail from Texas etc Kansas. We infer from back by rail from Texas sea Kansas. We meer from the statements of Captain Boyce that he contemplates poshing this business with energy if he finds encour-ment, and looks to future arrangements for transpor-tation rea Panama, which will facilitate the operation,

Worn-out Horses.

Not only is a good man kind to his beast, but your true pollanthropist taketh an interest in the fate of his humbler fellow creatures. Especially is the faithful and much enduring horse worthy of a mofaithful and much enduring horse worthy of a mo-mentary noting when he passes from the hill of his pride to the valley of his humiliation. The "noble animal" should not be wholly forgotten when his heasily is good, his spirits broken, and his strength decayed. Meekly he hows to the strokes of fate, and takes his changed fortune with becoming hu-mility, and a cold world taketh little beed of his sorrows and his sufferings. His heartless master basseth him off for here, and the comming looker corrows and his sufferings. His heartiess master passeth him off for lucre, and the coming jockey maketh his gain of the poor old carcass. At Sixty-fifth street and Sixth avenue, in this city, there is held, on every Wednesday and Saturday, a horse marked, where the fallen ones of the equine amily of New York and its immediate vicinity are brought to be sold. Some of these are woefel individual shortcomings. At these markets are found horses of all ages, and of many inferior classes. There you may for $35 purchase the remism of wint was once a showy single-harness horse. True, he is now neither sound in wind nor limb, yet he is sequal to some work, and while he can drag on in the daily mill be must go. A little further back in the crowd we have just caught a glimpse of two chest-nut-mares; they look far too spruce for their au-roundings. What has brought them here? Well, they are a pair of two year olds, and having some roundings. What has brought them here? Well, they are a pair of two year olds, and laving some action and no promise of strength, their owner, who is wise in his generation, has determined to dispose of them, and simultaneously to seil the luckless wight who purchases them. Public anction appears to be the favorite modus operandi for getting these sorry jades off their owner's hands. There they go! "One dollar, two dollars—come, gentlemen! ten dollars," and so on, till they are struck down at $180. Fortunate manth Emphatically, we congranlate the seller. Next lot, a gray saddle-horse, branded "U. S.," a trooper! Sad fate for a warrior who has nobly served his country to end his career as the back of a costermonger, whose highest aspirations in life are to peddle fad fish is "the dirtiest thoroughfares of the city. Well, such is glory, and our hero has to submit. Here he comes, making a show of himself and a speciacle of his owner, who, by the way, as a newly-imported son of the Emerald Isle, who having purchased the brute last Wednesday for next to nothing, sells him to-day for a triffeless. Ab, Patrick, my son, you are not now wandering "frank and free through the fairy grounds of good St. Bartlemy." No, my good friend, you have cheated many a verdant countryman, but your turn has come now. Make way with yourself and your sorry bargain; we have no more time to bestow on you. A lanky black comes forward. His owner says he is a blooded animal, and so his thin tall and silky mane attest. What piece of ill luck has brought him to this pass? On examination, we detect ansommlesses looked like epilepsy. One ragged fellow immediately below as kicked and struck out his arms, fosted at the mouth, and threw his head wildly hack, until a remedy which reminded one of the fight between King and Heenan was applied—both his ear being bitten as a restoraging he will be the control of the fight of the control They are, as a class, long-sided, narrow-carcassed, fiddle-headed, weak-backed brates, willing, it is true, but unable to do the work assigned to them. Every American breeder hopes to get a fast trotter. He would be a richer man and a better member of society if he would not such nonsense out of his head, and turn his abilities to improving his stock in a general way.

TRE "ALEXANDRA LIMP."—Alexander the Great, as history informs us, had a slight imperfection in the setting on of his head, which inclined a liftle to one side. His courtiers, therefore, telt it incumbent on them to affect awry necks, and did so accordingly. Alexandra, Princess of Wales, has unfortunately contracted a lift pfrom rhenmatism; and now, as we hear, the liege indies of England have taken to limping, too, and "halt?" Is the latest command given by fashion. That the "Alexandra limp" will find its way hither ere long, is a thing to be expected, and, indeed, it is stated to have already made its appearance on our fashionable promenades. The desired limp is obtained simply by wearing shoes with beels of unequal height, and the deformity thus produced is no greater than that which characterizes the "Greecian bend." A neccessary accompaniment of the "Alexandra limp" will be a walking-doils that adopt the gait. The fashion, of course, will lead to a modification of most of our present dances and the invention of new ones. Lap-sided waltizes will have to be devised, and in doing the "German" crutches will probably come to be the proper thing. As the skating season is at hand, it would be a neat flees to carry out the "Alexandra limp" on ice. We have had ever so many grood things "on ice" slready, and why not the "fimp?" The girls of the period are capable of acting on any of these suggestions, and they should by all means begin to have their bulmorals altered at once, if not their morals.—N. Y. World.
